machines, they were well employed. This leads to the belief that had conditions permitted, the percentage of the crop picked by machines would have equalled, and probably surpassed, that for the preceding harvest. Utilization of the machines based upon the number of days they could be used amounted to 52 percent for the season. Cold and windy weather delayed the cotton crop by 200 million dollars.

George Stevenson To Head Stanislaus Dad's Club For Month of March

George Stevenson was named president of the Stanislaus Dad's Club for the month of March at a meeting held Tuesday night at the home of Jos. E. Loaicano.

The innovation of rotating a new president for each month adds interest as well as lucrative features to this new organization which was begun by a small group of philanthropic men the latter part of January of this year.

The purpose of the organization is to promote friendship and good will. Regular meetings are scheduled to be held the last Saturday of each month at 8:00 p. m., with the next meeting date set for March 29.

Two officers are elected and serve for a full time schedule of a year, they are the Treasurer and Secretary. Jos. E. Loaicano was elected treasurer and Sterling Balaski Secretary. The office of president is voted each month by popular consent and the fun of drawing the name.

A contribution of $25.00 was made by the organization to the Bay St. Louis Youth Center this week.

In explaining the objects of the organization and potential membership, Loaicano said that membership would be limited to men interested in working and who will compose an active organization group. At the present time the membership consists of the three named officers and A. J. Frey, John Auderer, B. L. Davis, Roy Saux, of Waveland and Coachs Maufouz, Rueben Ruiz, of Stanislaus School, Charles Gottschalk, Lucien Kidd, Willy Rhodes, E. M. Brignac, Jr., of Bay St. Louis.

Twenty-five active members are the immediate goal of the organizers, however, it is felt, said Loaicano, that the growth of the club may be rapid with many men wishing to join its ranks. These will be considered but will be well screened as to active participation before they are extended membership privileges.

The three boys who were attacked claims to have no knowledge of who their assailants were, nor were they familiar with the car they told police. They did not get a physical description of their attackers as the episode was swift and brutal in the dark and the departure of the gang fast and swift.

Ladner said Pierce and Rukon were week-end guests of family friends at Waveland. Pierce received lacerations of the face and mouth, loss of teeth, and severe bruises to head and body. Rukon was also badly bruised, and suffered eye injuries and lacerations. Both boys are frequent visitors to the coast.

Parents of the boys were in Bay St. Louis this week with the Sheriff.

The hoodlums operated in just about the same vicinity as did the assailants who were alleged to have attacked William Rudolph several weeks ago on a Sunday evening shortly after seven o'clock. It is not believed that the two cases have any tie-in as Rudolph contended a girl and boy had attacked him and ran, and that they were on foot. It was coincidental that the location should have been the same, especially as that particular corner is highly traveled as it is one of the main artery streets of the city.

Ladner added that arrest of several in connection with the beating is imminent.

PONTIAC EASTERN CORPORATION'S BLACK CREEK REFINERY
NEAR PURVIS, MISSISSIPPI

Financiers Visit Pontiac Eastern Black Creek Refinery

Purvis, Miss. (Special)—Mississippi's newest addition to its growth in industrial might—Pontiac Eastern Corporation's Black Creek Refinery near Purvis—was visited by an official inspection party of eastern financiers, industrial leaders and state officials. The visit, according to the Eastern President Edwin White, was to show the financial and industrial leaders of the state that the Black Creek Refinery is an example of the industrial potential of Mississippi.

The group arrived at the refinery in Jackson this morning by train and company airplane. They toured the complex buildings by bus.

The $30 million refinery produces high quality automotive gasoline, diesel fuel, kerosene, home coke and other products from a daily intake of 14,000 barrels of crude oil from South Mississippi fields.

Last night the group attended a dinner meeting in Jackson presided over by former Governor James V. White. During his brief administration, White had been closely with the industrial leaders in Mississippi. Long the head of the state's industrial development agency, he founded during his first administration. He pointed out to the group that the presence of the Black Creek Refinery in Mississippi enhances the state's chances of obtaining additional related new industries.

Singer Speaks

At the dinner meeting, President Singer told of Pontiac Eastern's development of the refinery and the work and activity that preceded its construction. He particularly noted the large number of people and industrial and financial institutions who worked together towards the building of the plant. Singer said, "altogether, counting financial institutions, equipment manufacturers and service companies, almost 600 corporations contributed to the birth of Pontiac Eastern's Refinery."

The Black Creek Refinery's contribution to Mississippi's economic life and the importance of this contribution to the state's people in terms of human values was also discussed by Singer. He pointed out the number of Mississippi citizens who are employed at the plant and commented on the number of former Mississippians who returned to the state because of the plant. In addition, Singer told the visiting eastern financiers and industrialists of the wholehearted support and hospitality accorded Pontiac Eastern by Mississippi officials and citizens. He said, "the people of Mississippi and their public servants and federal, state, county and city levels have continuously demonstrated to us their desire to encourage the location of new industry within the boundary of their state and their desire to encourage the healthy flourishing of those industries."

Singer was introduced by Gulf Oil Corporation President W. K. Whiteford, Pittsburgh, who also outlined his company's role in the development of the refinery to the group. Gulf, the state's largest producer of crude oil, backed the establishment of the refinery by furnishing the crude oil intake and supplying a market for its gas oil output.

Governor J. P. Coleman acknowledged the Black Creek Refinery's contribution to Mississippi and welcomed the eastern visitors to the state.

Among those who represented the eastern financial institutions at the dinner and subsequent refinery visit were executives from the Mellon National Bank and Trust Company of Pittsburgh, the Bankers Trust Company of New York, J. P. Morgan and Company, J. H. Whitney & Company and Elfin Trusts.

UNITED STATES POPULATION CLIMBS ANOTHER 3 MILLION

For the second year in a row, the population of the United States increased by almost three million in 1957. The Census Bureau estimated the population as of January 1 was 172,900,000 compared with 169,800,000 a year earlier. The three million increase last year was the result of 4,302,000 births, the largest number on record, 1,638,000 deaths and 328,000 net civilian immigration.

CONGRESSIONAL SIDELIGHTS

by CONGRESSIONAL STAFF WRITERS

THE RUNAWAY COURT

The people in all sections of this country, North, East, South and West, are tremendously disturbed over a number of recent decisions by the Justices of the Supreme Court.

In spite of the fact that the Constitution of the United States provides specifically for the division of our government into three distinct branches, the Legislative, the Executive, and the Judicial, each separate and independent of the other, the U. S. Supreme Court, as now constituted, has not only trespassed upon the Constitutional prerogatives of the Executive Branch, but it has increasingly proceeded upon the theory that it is some kind of super legislative body, above both the Constitution and the Congress, free to write "the law of the land" on the basis of the personal ideologies of its members and the "authority" of other non-legal theories of sociological writers of what the law should be.

The phrase, "law of the land," occurs only once in the Constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made or which shall be made under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of the Land.

Again, Article 1, Section 1, of the Constitution says that "the law of the land" shall be vested in the Congress. It provides: "All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States which shall consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives."

Yet the U. S. Supreme Court has presumed to (1) reverse the 58-year-old doctrine of separate but equal school facilities citing "modern authority;" (2) nullify the law passed that the Supreme Court has just reversed, and (3) challenge the authority of Congress to make investigations by reversing a non-trial of Congress proceeding against a witness who refused to answer questions posed by one of the anti-subversive committee's (4) reverse the administrative action of the Executive Branch in firing an employee as a security risk; (5) tell the City of New York that it could not fire a professor who had reported to the 5th Amendment when questioned about possible Communist activities; (6) interfere with the State laws of New Mexico and California in denying admission to certain persons of notorious Communist affiliation to practice law within those states; (7) throw out the confession of an admitted rapist simply because of delay in arraignment of the accused.

CURBING THE COURT

These decisions have resulted in an ever-growing demand for the Congress, composed of representatives of the people, to take immediate action to curb the Court, as it has a Constitutional right and duty to do.

A number of bills having for their purpose the correction of various erroneous decisions of the Court have been introduced. However, each of these bills, some of which are now under consideration by the appropriate Congressional committees, would only correct a particular abuse by the Court. The obstacles in thus taking several bites at the cherry are obvious.

Therefore, we have introduced H. R. 10776, a comprehensive but realistic bill, which if enacted, as it should be, would correct most of the abuses complained of and substantially reverse the trend of the Court. There is nothing revolutionary in the bill. It would merely put the Court back in its proper and Constitutional channel, which the far-sighted, liberty-loving Founding Fathers provided for it.

Many years ago, when the Supreme Court was small, it was possible to control it by the Senate. But now, with its 9 members, it is impossible to control it by the Senate. It is necessary that an effort be made to try to influence them. This is being done through the generous and wholehearted cooperation of the press of the State of Mississippi, which has gladly donated space for this information and which it is hoped, will be welcomed by all present and future state income taxpayers.

The Mississippi Income Tax Law was first enacted in March 1912. This early statute imposed a tax of 1% on the net income of every individual or corporation in excess of $2,000.00. This law was repealed on April 1, 1924, and was replaced by a modernized statute, closely modeled after the Federal Income Tax Law then in force, and it has been changed little since that time. Exemptions and rates have been changed by ten sessions of the legislature since 1924. The other provisions of the statute are almost identical with those originally enacted.

The yield has varied greatly during this period. During 1952, our state income tax produced a total of $288,498.40. The high year was 1957, when the State collected income taxes in the sum of $19,164,890.04.

Our Mississippi Income Tax Law is administered by the Chairman of the State Tax Commission who, by the provisions of the statute, is the Commissioner of Income Tax. The Commissioner, in his effort to serve all taxpayers as expeditiously as possible, has created and placed in operation nine district service offices. These offices are located in Senatobia, Tupelo, Greenwood, Columbus, Jackson, Meridian, Brookhaven, Hattiesburg and Gulfport. Anyone who has any questions concerning the law or the collection of the tax, or who wishes to make a payment, should contact one of these district offices. The law is the first of a series of short discussions concerning our Mississippi Income Tax Law. Subsequent discussions will relate to have any effect on the law.

How To Get Industry

An Open Letter To Mississippians

Counties, communities, chambers of commerce, companies and the State of Mississippi seek new industries. Added payrolls, offering opportunities for employment, are a sure cure for most of our economic ills. And Mississippi is not alone in this hot pursuit. As never before, competing communities throughout the country court capital investment and woo industry.

In 1926 Mississippi Power Company pioneered in this creative field by establishing the state's first full-time New Industries Department. For thirty-two years we have actively assisted community and industry to get together harmoniously.

Practical experience has taught us priceless lessons. For example, we quickly learned the essential fact that industry goes where it will be well treated. Naturally, invested capital is always timid and often gunshy.

As a matter of record, certain states and towns have been highly successful in securing factories. In every instance, the successful community has clearly demonstrated that it really wanted industry. It had created a favorable industrial climate.

A community's business environment—its atmosphere for growth—includes much more than its basic requirements. Although markets, a building site, manpower, transportation, water, electricity and fuel are all necessary, no town holds a monopoly on these. By necessity, industry requires more than its material needs.

Primarily, business wants fair treatment. It pays its full share of all taxes levied to provide schools, hospitals, streets, parks and pays good wages. Industry strives to be a good citizen. It looks to its neighbors and to local government for fair play and full justice. If industry and business are to prosper, they could not expect nor receive less.

Does your community provide a climate conducive to industrial development? Give it the acid test. How well does it treat business already established there? Does your community maintain a friendly and wholesome environment for those who have already invested their lives and their money there?

The answer given this acid test will accurately gauge the economic future of your city. Industry naturally gravitates to that community and to that state which have a reputation for being good neighbors. Industry begets industry. Communities build themselves above themselves on the firm foundation of fair treatment and mutual promises.

Mississippians only can create the business climate essential to that growth which is the lifeblood of our state.

Los Girls To Show
At Star Theatre This Sunday And Monday
Sol C. Siegel started the ball rolling when he selected Miss Gaynor for one of the title roles in "Los Girls" at M-G-M. Miss Gaynor was the first member of the cast of the elaborate musical to be chosen by the producers and George Cukor, who directed it. Since this was more than six months before the picture actually went before the cameras, the actress first took time to appear opposite Frank Sinatra in "The Joker is Wild."
And while she was still working on "Los Girls," she was named for the part of Nurse Nellie Forbush in the forthcoming film version of "South Pacific."
No other actress as far as Hollywood remembers, ever received three such important roles in so short a time.
But as long as the pictures she makes call for dancing (which the three new ones do), she's happy. She'd rather dance, she admits, than eat. And since she's a girl who enjoys food, that's a tall statement.
"I love to dance—hot, cold, anything," says Miss Gaynor. "I work like a dither digger but I've been mad about dancing ever since my Aunt Francine, a dancing teacher, put ballet slippers on my feet and turned me out like a duck's underlings when I was only four."
Miss Gaynor has been dancing ever since. Gene Kelly, Kay Kendall, Edna Ege and others in the cast of "Los Girls," even noted that she would execute a step or two from one side of the room to the other while changing her costumes.
Not even a sprained ankle could keep her from turning up for rehearsals with Kelly for the big number she dances with him in the film.
